

Philip H. Carson Dies By Cutting His Throat Early This Morning

Uster Landing Scene of Tragedy to Chief of Woodstock Hotel—Had Been in Ill Health For Some Time.

Philip Nathaniel Carson, 40 years old, committed suicide this morning at his home at Ulster Landing, town of Saugerties, by putting his throat with a razor. For some time Carson had been ill and during employment as chef at the Woodstock Hotel he had been treated by Dr. Lowner.

For the last few days his actions had been unusual and he rarely spoke to others. Recently he had been brooding over his condition and contemplating the act.

Last Wednesday he was at the

This morning as was his custom he arose about 6 o'clock and went out to let out the chickens which he kept on his place. Shortly thereafter his wife arose and followed him outside. At the chicken coop she noticed that the chickens had not been given their freedom yet and she called to her husband and when she received no answer she began an investigation. At the back of the house is located a small toilet building. The door was closed and she knocked and called to Carson and when she received response she tried to look through small window but was unable to see inside. Securing a hammer she broke out a pane of glass and saw a man on the floor. Unable to break open the door she notified her brother-in-law, Gustave Benjamin, and he battered in the door and in the pockets of the dead man was found a pocket knife and a quarter and also another razor. Carson was a West Indian having been born in Jamaica. He had lived in Fisher Landing for about 10 years. For the past four years he had been in health.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 12 (AP)—Stocks and staples hesitated today as profit-taking became needed to cool the recently heated ardor of most of the market.

Share trading, especially, received a jolt when leading distillery issues dropped 3 to 17 points on an avalanche of selling which apparently followed the old rule of realizing on the good news. Gold mining shares also turned heavy, as did several other specialties. Wheat was off a cent or more a bushel and other grains were easier. Cotton and sugar leading commodities were

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, July 12 (State Department of Agriculture and Markets).—State fair Boston lettuce supply was more liberal. Lower prices prevailed with the demand light. Crates of two dozen heads sold at 50c-51c, occasionally as high as $1.25.

Fruits
Apples: New York state, too few offerings to define market quotations. The market ruled steady on most kinds of berries except currants, which were weaker. Huckleberries, however, were slightly stronger. Clapps favorite pears have commenced to arrive from the Hudson Valley. The fruit was mostly of small size and therefore received scant attention.

Black caps: Hudson Valley and New Jersey, pint basket, 5c-8c. Blackberries: Hudson Valley, quart basket, 10c-12c, few as high as 14c.

Cherries: Hudson Valley, quart basket, red, 8c-12c, black 7c-10c. Four quart climax basket, red, 30c-40c, best 35c-40c. Black 25c-40c, mostly 30c-35c. Twelve quart climax basket, red 75c-81.25, mostly 80c-81.10, black 75c-81.10.

Currents: Hudson Valley, quart basket, red, 6c-8c, a few as high as 10c. Black 25c-30c.

Gooseberries: Hudson Valley, quart basket, best large 12c-15c.

Pears: Hudson Valley, Clapps favorite, half bushel and 12 quart climax basket 75c-85c, occasionally as high as $1.

Red raspberries: Hudson Valley, pint basket, wide range in quality and condition, best 10c-12c.

Slightly lower and other issues sagged. The dollar was a bit smaller in foreign exchange markets. Bonds continued to plod upward. Margin requirements have been raised drastically. In some of the fast-moving specialties margins of 50 to 60 per cent are now demanded by many firms and in a few of the more volatile wet issues several firms have been insisting on cash transactions exclusively.

Relative firmness of the rails and copper stocks was believed to reflect the continued improvement in both these lines. While copper was still quoted at 5 cents a pound, most of the larger producers were said to be asking 3 1/2 cents on the theory that this level would soon be established throughout the trade. First June earnings reports from the railroads were highly satisfactory to holders of carrier issues.

Howe About: Morality Behaviorism A Rebel at Heart

By ED HOWE
ONE of the most disturbing questions among men concerns the meaning of morality. The dictionary adds to the confusion by giving two definitions. One of them is: "Guidance derivable from a table"; another: "Courage to do right unmoved by odium or ridicule"; still another: "Probability that can hardly fail."

Meanwhile every disputant should know that the word morality means only civilization. Our earliest and reddest ancestors realized the importance of providing shelter from storms; the advisability of adding comfort and convenience in their lives.

If we meet a stranger, and say of him he is a civil man, it means he is disposed to be civilized: polite, fair, educated, reasonable in his judgments; willing to exchange civilities with his neighbors; to recognize not only the rights of women and children, but the rights of men.

If you sincerely wish to be known as a civil man, and make reasonable effort to deserve that reputation, I will add my voice to that of the world in declaring you a civilized gentleman.

And civil men practice the rules of civilization because long experience has demonstrated it is finally the best and easiest way, and the most profitable. If civility did not pay, it would not have been so long and universally recommended.

The best word I encounter in reading is "behaviorism." The new and intelligent religion we have been hoping for might be founded on it. Behaviorism is the substance of the advice of parents to children, the best and most unselfish teaching in the world. It includes culture, education, success in life; civilization itself. Preachers and orators always advocate it; school teachers recommend it constantly to children; all ladies and gentlemen practice it—no finer sentiment may be used in writing.

Yet, the word does not seem popular. I see it only in an occasional book, very rarely in newspapers, and never hear it used in conversation.

Although I cordially dislike the impudent propagandists who constantly urge the people to become wasters and enthusiastic fools for wrong measures, no one more readily submits to them. When I travel I know it is an outrage to pay the sleeping car porter for services I paid for when I bought my ticket, but I am always anxious to satisfy him: no coward worries more from fear he has not done his full duty as a slave.

I always take off my hat in a public elevator when a stenographer enters, and feel foolish. Last winter, in Florida, I occasionally went to a cafeteria for food. Once I forgot to tip the colored boy who carried my tray a few feet, and was uncomfortable most of the day; I am constantly in rebellion, but the mildest of rebels.

Privately, my greatest heroes are those Russians who kicked open the door of the palace, and pulled the czar's whiskers. I have always been so afraid of rulers, so cordially despise their weakness and the unreasonable tasks they impose on me, one of my secret sins is, I admire these Russian ruffians. How they put the preachers and women in their places! Having always been a country town man, the farmers have ruled me. Observe the bold attitude of the Russian ruffians toward farmers! I know the Russians are wrong and that they would be better off if they observed the conventions, but these scoundrels are at least not cowards; I'm ashamed I am not as bold for measures I know to be right, as they are for measures they know to be wrong.

Years ago I knew an old fellow, smart above the average himself, who said his daughter Allison was the only member of the family who had any sense. Once his wife went to Big Doctors to be looked over, and they reported she would not live a week unless operated on at once. "Allison," the father said, "you go on and see what sense there is in it." And Allison went on, brought her mother home without an operation, and she is alive yet. We never had an Allison in our family; I think I'll ask her husband for permission to appeal to her in my graver emergencies.

Plato has been exploited thousands of years as a philosopher; as probably the wisest man in history. A writer lately told a story to a syndicate of newspapers declaring that Plato was not a philosopher or thinker, but only noted in his time as a strong man; a huge fellow who, being attached to two horses at street caravans, pulled them all over the lot. Much in print is like that: new, interesting, clever, well-done, and invented.

The greatest story in the world is the story of the French Revolution. Every leader in it was a scoundrel, and nearly everyone had his head cut off before the people whipped themselves into going back to the old common sense. At one time during the imprisonment of Louis XVI's queen, everyone of her two hundred guards had sold himself to the enemy: it was an honest man looking for a purchaser who revealed the plot for her escape.

Large Shipments Of Fish, Game Liberated

During the past month heavy shipments of large and small mouth bass, pike, perch, crappies and brook trout have been received by member clubs of the Ulster County Federation for liberation in the Esopus, Rondout, Wallkill and Modena creeks, numerous trout brooks throughout the county, the Bitter water lakes, Kaopus Lake and other lakes and ponds. Large quantities of each kind of fish have been received and liberated and are expected to do much to assist in the work of the Federated Clubs to improve fishing in local waters.

The first shipment of brown trout and rainbow trout has been liberated with heavier shipments to be made in August.

Under the distribution system of the Federated Clubs, every available open stream in the county has been stocked with an abundance of suitable fish.

The Ulster County Fish and Game Association acting as a special permit from the Conservation Department has completed their experimental netting of black bass from the Hudson river and a considerable number of large fish have been replanted in the local streams. This transplanting which is experimental this year might in the future become a wonderful means of restocking.

In addition to the fish received, E. M. Huben, president of the Federated Clubs, has received notice from the Conservation Department on the shipment of quail to four member clubs of the Federation. These will be received during the next month or so, and liberated in coveys already designated. This is the second step in the endeavor to restock this county with these wonderful birds. Notice has also been received of additional pheasants and pheasant eggs proportioned to the different member clubs.

On the original shipment of eggs to those clubs, the results have been highly successful, the most remarkable being the results at the Ulster County Fish and Game Association rearing farm. Out of 100 pheasants hatched 92 are still alive and in fine shape and will be liberated August first.

The close cooperation between the Conservation Department and the Federated Clubs is being most helpful to local sportsmen in pursuing their favorite pastime.

Symphony Society Pays Worm Tribute

In the sudden death of Thomas J. Comerford, the Kingston Symphony Society and Orchestra have suffered an irreparable loss. Coming to Kingston during the early days of the Symphony Society and Orchestra, Mr. Comerford soon took an active and valuable interest in the then unique musical organization for a city the size of Kingston, an orchestra, which under its founder and conductor, Prof. George H. Muller, could give concerts of full symphonic character in very meritorious manner.

When the Society and Orchestra were recently reorganized, following a long recess that came after the war, Mr. Comerford was one of the first to devote time, effort, money and constructive criticism to its up-building and successful operations. Deeply interested in good music and appreciative of its value in a community, Mr. Comerford was particularly keen about the educational features of the symphonic organization in our public and parochial schools as the one thing needful for the future of the best music in the city and county.

Perhaps no one else knew better the difficulties of creating and carrying forward such a musical organization and Mr. Comerford's appreciation of the great service rendered the community by the founder and conductor of the orchestra was outspoken and most sincere.

Mr. Comerford's name and memory will always be held in deepest appreciation and regard by the officers and members of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Symphony Society:

Kipling's "Recessional"

Honoring Queen Victoria
Kipling's "Recessional" was first published in the London Times of July 17, 1897. The occasion which brought it out was the diamond jubilee commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the coronation of Queen Victoria.

"The celebrating was most magnificent in splendor and extravagance in expense," writes Waltman Barbe in "Famous Poems Explained." "Rejoicing in the worldly pride and power of Britain on land and sea was the chief characteristic of the event, and for the time being any higher power seemed to be forgotten."

"At the close of the celebration Rudyard Kipling published the Recessional, and it had wonderful effect in sobering the nation and bringing the more thoughtful persons to a true conception of national and personal responsibility."

"It was read from a multitude of pulpits, and soon everybody was reciting it. No other poem of our time has had such immediate or such deep influence. It is doubtless the greatest hymn of this generation."

"The title is fitting. The recessional hymn is the hymn sung after the service as the singers return in procession to the seating room; and Mr. Kipling's poem was written to be read after the celebration."

ization, with resulting increase in the cost of medical care for the general public. Emphasis on specialization has developed in patients the habit of shopping around for medical advice. Thus they lose the advantage of the understanding and general health services of a family physician who knows them and their problems thoroughly. The commission on medical education reports that 85 per cent of the conditions for which patients consult a doctor can be satisfactorily diagnosed and treated by a competent general practitioner with the amount of equipment he has in his own office and with the facilities of his neighboring hospital.

An old problem is brought to a focus by the government's effort to get excess coal miners out of the mining fields. There are at least a couple of hundred thousand more men in this industry than can ever be profitably used to supply all the coal needed. One solution proposed is to find room for the surplus miners in industries not over-manned, though it is hard to find such industries now. Another is the old suggestion of combining coal mining with some other part-time industry, in alternate seasons. That, too, is difficult with our industrial organization. But it offers hope of considerable readjustment when employers and workers once get used to the idea. There are many different kinds of work that might supplement each other, affording continuous employment for our seasonal workers. One of the reconstruction tasks is to fit them together.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

 ELECTRIC SHOCK

It is thrilling when you read from time to time of an individual who has had an electric shock and after being apparently dead is restored to life by the hard and persistent efforts of a physician, a policeman, a fireman or fellow workers.

While the conditions produced upon the human body by the electric current depend on the source, character, voltage, amperage, and resistance, all that concerns the one who attempts the rescue is to free the victim from the current in the quickest and safest manner and begin artificial breathing or resuscitation, as it is called.

Hart Ellis Fisher, in the Illinois Medical Journal, in speaking of releasing the victim says, "Whenever possible pulling the switch is the quickest way of releasing the current. Where the switch is not at hand, the rescuer should make use of a rope, belt, necktie, or even his dry coat which should be looped about the part most easy to separate from the current and removed with one quick thrust. If a dry stick is available it should be used to pry the victim away from the contact."

All rescues should be done with one hand, preferably the right, so that if an electric shock should be received it would not be severe enough to be fatal. By using the right hand while the left is placed in the pocket the current will enter the right hand and pass out of the right leg, and will not go across the chest and heart as would occur if the two hands were used. All skin surfaces of the victim's body should be avoided, also his pockets and shoes for a severe shock can be obtained from such metals as knife or keys."

When the patient is free of the electric current artificial respiration should be started at once and kept up until the patient breathes or shows positive signs of death such as stiffening or coldness of the body.

The Schafer method is now considered the best method. The patient is laid face downward and the rescuer kneels down, beside or astride him, and placing his hands on the lower portion of the victim's ribs presses downward to push air out of the lungs, and then lifts the weight off suddenly to let air flow into the lungs. This is done 20 or 30 times to the minute or a little more rapidly than the normal breathing of the body.

MODENA

Modena, July 18.—The regular meeting of the Modena Troop of Girl Scouts was held in the Club House at Ardenia Wednesday afternoon of the past week.

Dr. Tucker and family of New York City are spending the summer vacation at their residence north of Modena village.

Mrs. Dedrick Ronk and children, Agnes and Robert, of Ardenia, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Every Thursday afternoon.

Miss Helen Every of Kingston spent the week-end with relatives in this place.

Mrs. William Bernard and children visited Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wager and son, Harold, of Cliftondale, were callers on relatives in town Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Vernard Wager of Plattkill spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wager in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mills and son, Robert, of Leptonsdale, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ward last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coy of New Paltz were recent visitors of relatives in town.

THE RETURN

THE village looked just the same, and yet to George, peering out of the window of Mr. Scarlet's old cab, it seemed as if she was coming back into an entirely new world of which she knew every landmark.

As the old cab swung with a protesting creak round the corner George saw the tall, bony-legged man, looking taller still and more ragged, soaring above the broken wall like a child that has grown out of last year's petticoat.

She shivered a little as Scarlet placed the whip in his brass socket and climbed slowly down from the box, coming round to open the slatted door of the cab.

"Had a nice holiday, Miss?" he asked.

"Yes, thank you," George said.

He hauled her luggage down from the top of the cab, and with a belated sense of courtesy pushed open the iron gate where the wooden plate which had once borne the name of "The Hollies" looked more weather-beaten and shamed than ever.

"Are they expecting you, Miss?" Mr. Scarlet asked.

"No," George said, "I just came."

She walked up the path to the house and pushed the door open, wondering if it had ever been locked since she went away.

The familiar atmosphere of the old shabby house rushed out to greet her, and she smiled faintly as she crossed the hall to her uncle's study. Nobody was there, George went into the kitchen.

Nobody there either, but a fire was burning brightly, and a row of clean tea-towels was hung to dry on a string stretching the width of the room.

George paid Mr. Scarlet, told him to leave her luggage in the hall, and went upstairs. Her bedroom door was shut, and she opened it with the eerie feeling that she was stepping back into the past, a long way back.

Cinderella who had driven away three months ago in a luxurious motor, had come back in Mr. Scarlet's cab to an empty house.

The blinds were drawn down in this room and it smelt musty and disused.

George drew the blinds up and opened the windows; it seemed a lifetime since her last return home, when she had leaned from the window and picked a rose, fresh from the rain.

Would Edward Bancroft be glad to see her, or had he grown used to being alone?

The house did not seem to have suffered by her absence as she had half thought it might; it looked just the same. It was only she who had changed so much, who had left everything worth having in life far behind her.

SHE took off her hat and went downstairs again, and as she reached the hall, she heard the familiar slam of the creaking front gate, and then the almost violent opening of the front door under Edward Bancroft's hand.

He looked not quite so red-faced or ill-kept, for his hair was neatly brushed, and, wonder of wonders, he was wearing a new tie.

He stopped dead on the coconaut mat, and stared at her, then he said "Good Lord!"

"I've come home," George said almost timidly.

"What for?" he asked bluntly.

She tried to smile; it was not much of a welcome when one wanted a welcome so badly.

"They've had enough of me," she said.

"Just what I expected," he said, and then, "Well, you don't look any better for your gay life."

"I don't think it's been very gay," George said, and then, "How are you, uncle?"

"How do you suppose I am?" he demanded. "Just the same. Everything's the same."

He went into his study, and she heard him pouring out a drink.

After a moment George followed him.

"I hope you don't mind," she said.

George, tomorrow, learn a still more startling fact.

during Sunday, July 23-30, inclusive, when the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Guice and children will be vacationing. Church services will be resumed Sunday, August 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wager spent Sunday evening in Kingston.

The Misses Gertrude Every, Helen Every, Elsie Crosswell and Beatrice Crosswell have returned to their homes in Kingston after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultz.

Mrs. Cornelia Taylor has returned to "The Old Homestead" after spending some time at her home in Albany.

Sunday afternoon, the Modena Fire Department baseball team played a close game with the Milton Rainbow team, when the score reached 8-7, in the sixth inning, with the M. F. D. victorious. The cloudy condition of the weather and the threatened rain caused the game to be late in starting, but action was not lacking thereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Griffith and family of New York City are occupying their summer home in Modena.

Solomon Bernard, Jr., of Waukegan, visited relatives in this place Sunday.

"Mind?" He stared at her. "Mind what?"
 "My coming home."
 "If you thought I should, you ought to have asked me first," was his reply. "You'll have to look after yourself. Mrs. DeLis's taken the afternoon off. Not that she's any good when she's here. I'm about sick of her. I can tell you. Sick of everything."
 "I'll make some tea," George said.

She went to the kitchen and put the kettle on the fire. She didn't want any tea, but it was something to do, she leaned her head against the mantelpiece and watched the kettle with far-away eyes.

It seemed funny that there was no longer anything she wanted to do, to place where she wanted to go, to place where she wanted to go. Tomorrow and

Earthquake Frequency
Seismographs throughout the world record an average of twenty-five earthquakes every twenty-four hours, fourteen of which are strong enough to be felt by a person standing over them. Those that occur on land and damage buildings take place on an average of one every eighty-two hours—once a week.

Madrid's Appetite Large
Residents of Madrid, Spain, consumed 35,540 tons of bread, 37,000 tons of vegetables and 10,000,000 eggs last year, according to statistics just published. More bread, potatoes and meat were eaten than in 1931, but the consumption of wine, game and canned foods decreased.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Woodbury, N. J. (A).—Esmeralda's cat, not a catbird, but she has proved to be a bird of a cat at that. This varicolored feline picked out an aged maple tree and high within its decaying trunk built a nest. Now five kittens share the nest with Esmeralda.

That New Calendar.

San Francisco—Mrs. Margaret E. Pordon charged in a divorce action filed here that when she remonstrated with her husband, John, because he stayed away from home he answered he was sorry there weren't eight days in a week so he could stay away an extra day.

Nice Girls Don't.

Seattle—One-fourth of the co-eds at the University of Washington can't wink, which debars them from one of the university's physical education courses. Maj. W. E. Frazer, associate professor of military science, gives the winking tests to determine whether the girl is capable of learning to shoot.

Fast Kicker.

Fort Worth, Tex.—With a well-aimed kick, Lee Kidd, 20, broke the neck of a mad dog which ran amuck downtown.

This Is Oklahoma!

Oklahoma City—Fearful lest the "grogshop" order from effecting 3.2 beer might be obnoxious to some of his customers, the proprietor of a popular cafe here burns incense in his establishment.

Fan Not In Order.

Peking—No Chinese can afford to indulge in dancing while China faces one of the greatest crises in its history. Yuan Ling, Peking's new mayor, said today. He ordered all dance halls and cabarets in the city to close.

Shortest Will.

Erie, Pa.—The shortest will ever filed in Erie was written in pencil on a piece of cardboard by W. S. Halstead, 70-year-old farmer who committed suicide.

"I Will What I Have to My Brother."

He had $1,566.

A Gesture That Jailed.

New York—A gesture put Harold Chamberlain behind the bars. Summoned to court for being $20 in arrears in alimony, Chamberlain was put on probation.

As He Left the Room, He Thumbed His Nose at His Wife.

The judge called him back and ordered him to post $80 bond. He couldn't, so they took him to jail, gestureless.

Friction.

Chicago—Mrs. Catherine Zach apparently became so excited when she attempted to drive off a dog that she was leading that she died of a heart attack.

Good For Whiskers.

Chicago—When General Italo Balbo came to town from across the sea with his Italian flunkies, he started something.

Independent, Personally Conducted Trips Abroad

There is a difference between the independent and the personally conducted trip abroad. A personally conducted trip is arranged in advance by a tour company, with a set itinerary and the traveler is under the guidance of a tour manager who attends to all details, such as transfer of baggage, hotel reservations, sightseeing, etc., thus saving the traveler every possible inconvenience. For a person who has previously been to Europe the independent arrangements are usually more satisfactory and arrangements are made by a tour company for steamship reservations and all hotel and sightseeing arrangements on the other side. The traveler is usually met at all stations and transferred to the hotel and coupons are issued for each excursion, hotel reservations, and he pays for all arrangements before he leaves the United States. The itinerary is elastic and can be changed en route, by dealing with the tour company through whom arrangements were completed.

10,000 Copies the First Week.

When "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was first printed in book form it sold 10,000 copies the first week and 300,000 in the first year. Half a million copies had been distributed in the United States alone in its first five years and it has been translated into more than a score of foreign languages and dialects. It is estimated that the entire sale of the book in the years since it was written have exceeded 12,000,000, about 7,000,000 of which never paid any royalties to the author, being sold in foreign countries before the establishment of international copyright law. The copyright, under the then existing statute, expired a few years previous to the author's death in the late eighties.

Queer Taxes.

Many queer taxes have been imposed from time to time by chancellors who were at their wit's end for means of raising money. William Pitt levied tax on every clock or timepiece. As a result these became scarce, and "Act-of-Parliament Clocks" were exhibited by keepers of inns for the benefit of their patrons. During the Napoleonic wars a tax on hair powder caused the fashion for powdered wigs and heads to die out in England. Lord Randolph Churchill once proposed a tax on sporting cartridges, but the farmers threatened to let the country become overrun with rabbits, and the idea was dropped.—Montreal Herald.

The Santa Fe Trail.

Don Pedro Vial, a Spaniard, explored the route of the Santa Fe trail. On horseback he poked out the trail in 1766 and several other horsemen passed the dim markings before 1821, which was the year William Becknell made the first trip with a pack train. It was Becknell's report to Congress that led to the council of 1823 when three federal commissioners met with the Ojaga Indians and made the treaty which gave the United States a right-of-way through the Indian lands forever, the Santa Fe trail.

Famous Tower 800 Years Old.

The tower of St. Stephen, the symbol of the capital of Austria, is five hundred years old. One of the most interesting facts in the history of the tower is that it was built before the church was constructed.

MASHED POTATOES

OFFICE CAT
By Jimmie

"I am so head up," said an office cat, "that I do not call on my master any more, for I can't even get him my respects."

Independent Lamb—I'm going in for a career and get a man's pay. The bride (beaming)—I'm going in for marriage and get a big business man's income.

Boss—How do you manage lately to get to work on time in the morning?
Young Clerk—My parents wake me up when they come home from bridge parties.

Until somebody thinks up a hot dog that is fat, tucking them inside a roll is going to remain a problem.

Jo—I like musicals when they aren't over my head.
No—Yeah, that's just the way I feel about sea gulls.

Some men study to learn more, but a vastly greater number study to get argument to justify their present belief that they know it all.

Too many folks go looking for trouble. If you pick out a railroad bridge to walk across you must expect a train will come along.

Waitress (taking order)—How do you like your eggs?
Diner—How do I know? I haven't had them yet.

Lots of dentists call their waiting room a dental parlor. Well, just so they don't speak of it as a drawing room.

Bonus Seeker—Buddy, if you had to enlist again for overseas duty, what branch of the service would you go in?
Buddy—The peace delegation.

Summer Shower—Broad hints, as a rule, don't get as good results as the narrow ones. When you know a man whose chief hobby is work, you don't find him in the bread line. The politician couldn't have any more frons in the fire if he'd been brought up a blacksmith. Some folks who give until it hurts are mighty susceptible to pain. A good rain often serves the purpose better than a caustic remark. The hen pecked husband gets his satisfaction by teaching the dog to lie down and roll over. Idle remarks seldom remain that way. There's plenty of work for everybody these days. The trouble comes in the matter of paying for it. One reason the radio will never succeed the newspaper is because you can't wrap up a lunch in it. One thing the depression has accomplished: It has certainly increased the demand for red ink.

Grace—Tom Terry is raising a mustache!
Lucy—Do you like a mustache on a man?
Grace—Sure! It tickles me almost to death!

Advice to young men: "Be certain the girl you marry knows how to cook, and also be sure you know how to get the things for her to cook."

Rich—What makes you think that fellow Smathers is insane?
Hupp—He thinks he knows what his insurance policy covers.

The "Keep Out" sign arouses curiosity just the same as the "Danger" sign makes one want to take a chance.

"If Lapland's people are 'Laps', and Japan's people are 'Japs', then where on earth is the land of birth Of all our millions of 'Saps'?"

Some fellow could make a fortune by inventing some way whereby we could have everything we want in the way of government without having to pay for it by taxes.

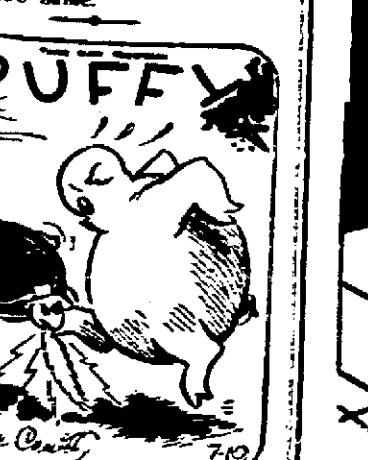

History does very little good. Governments won't follow the example of Pharaoh and his grain administrator Joseph, and save surplus wheat for the next depression.

In spite of a century of progress, Chicago seems more interested in being a barge terminus than a seaport.

Harold—How would you like a little kiss?
Edith—Followed by some big ones.

(The Moss Feature Syndicate, 808 Summit Ave., Greensboro, N. C.)

Smart, isn't it?
If the click beetle is turned on its back it is able to right itself by bending its body and jumping into the air. This is accompanied by a clicking sound which is responsible for the beetle's name.

The day is as clear as a fairy tale. But Puff gives the turtle a powerful shake. "Turtle," says the Puff "all you'll think it's the weather!" "Turtle," "Turtle," "Turtle," though your lungs be of leather!"

HIGH FALLS

The menu will be as follows: Broilers, mashed potatoes, creamed oysters, cabbage salad, jelly, pickles, rolls, ice cream and coffee.

The people extend their sympathy to the bereaved family and friends of the Rev. E. Schuller, former pastor of the Reformed Church during the years 1914-1915, who died in Bloomfield Saturday, July 8.

Victor G. Purcell of The Globe called on friends in this place Monday en route to Kerhonkson. The church cistern has been cleaned and now it is hoped there will be rain so there will be plenty of water ready for the night of the winter supper. The recent rain and showers were very acceptable, but much more rain is needed as everything is dry.

Marvin Van Wagenen was a recent caller at the home of John H. Ayer. George Williams is now in Utah. Dolores Ayers is spending a few weeks in Poughkeepsie and vicinity.

THE WORLD OF STAMPS
By Quinton James.
Turkey's latest issue, a charity set for child welfare, is nothing to get excited about, from the sea-theric point of view. The design pictures two husky babies holding up a star, printed in red, in which appears a crescent.

In the specimen we have seen the printing of the star was so imperfect that the two lower points seemed to have been chopped off. The values are 1, 3 and 15 kurus and 20 paras.

Official Airmail.
A special three-penny airmail stamp has been issued by the Great Western railway of England, which operates an airmail service between Birmingham and Plymouth. The issue is reported to have been sanctioned by the British postal authorities, but is not, of course, an official one.

New Watermark.
The Nazi swastika emblem will be used henceforth as the watermark on all German stamps, although existing postage stamps, bearing a waffle-shaped mark, must first be used.

Canadian Overprint.
The Canadian post office department announces that in honor of the world's grain conference, to be held at Regina, Canada, this summer, it will overprint a quantity of the 20-cent pictorial originally issued in December, 1930.

A special three-penny airmail stamp has been issued by the Great Western railway of England, which operates an airmail service between Birmingham and Plymouth. The issue is reported to have been sanctioned by the British postal authorities, but is not, of course, an official one.

New Watermark.
The Nazi swastika emblem will be used henceforth as the watermark on all German stamps, although existing postage stamps, bearing a waffle-shaped mark, must first be used.

Canadian Overprint.
The Canadian post office department announces that in honor of the world's grain conference, to be held at Regina, Canada, this summer, it will overprint a quantity of the 20-cent pictorial originally issued in December, 1930.

THE WORLD OF STAMPS
By Quinton James.
Turkey's latest issue, a charity set for child welfare, is nothing to get excited about, from the sea-theric point of view. The design pictures two husky babies holding up a star, printed in red, in which appears a crescent.

In the specimen we have seen the printing of the star was so imperfect that the two lower points seemed to have been chopped off. The values are 1, 3 and 15 kurus and 20 paras.

Cosmetics Are Not Enough

The basis for maintaining personal beauty is, of course, scrupulous cleanliness—cleanliness that goes deeper than the surface of the skin. This means frequent, pore-cleansing washing with plenty of hot water...If you have not already enjoyed the convenience of hot water arrangements that are completely automatic, you will scarcely realize how comforting and time-saving this modern convenience can be.

FIFTEEN CENTS per day will pay the cost of automatic hot water in this city, for average family usage.

Kingston: "When Ladies Meet"
Robert Montgomery, Ann Harding, Frank Morgan, Myrna Loy and Alice Brady are to be seen in sparkling and perfectly done comedy drama that hits a new high in screen entertainment. It's the eternal triangle again, with Frank Morgan especially good in the role of the excitement seeking publisher who falls for a modern young author, played by Myrna Loy. Her lover, Robert Montgomery, knows all about the affair, and as a last resort he brings the publisher's wife into the affair. From there on, with some of the finest acting of the year, the show moves on to the intensely dramatic conclusion. The plot is the negligible part of this picture; it is the acting and flawless dialogue that makes it the success it is. Excitement and glamour are lacking, but so human and understanding is this talkie, so finely done and flawless in its character portrayal, that it is most assuredly placed on the front list of current films.
Orpheum: "The Conquerors"
"West of Singapore." An effort to duplicate "Cimarron" is this historic panorama of the growth of the west until the present day. It tries to bring optimism to those who worry about the future of the nation. Well acted, directed by William Wellman, and created on a gigantic and expensive scale, "The Conquerors" falls just short of being another epic picture. Richard Dix heads a cast that includes Ann Harding, Edna May Oliver and Guy Kibbee. "West of Singapore" is a thriller with Betty Compson.
Broadway: "The Nuisance." Lee Tracy at his unbeatable best gives a riotous performance in this popular yarn of a shy lawyer who follows ambulances, gets to every accident, and also gets numerous clients and a great deal of money for his efforts. So perfect is Mr. Tracy in this role that the show has no let down, but tears along, reel after reel, growing in excitement and action as the plot progresses. He outshines all the other stars in the smart corporation lawyers every time, and uses them all as pawns and suckers until a girl, played by Madge Evans, ties him around her finger. Frank Morgan, as the drunken doctor, accomplice of Tracy, almost steals the show with a great performance, while Charles Butterworth lends comedy relief that is sure fire. A bright, action-brim talkie, with every essential ingredient necessary to an entertaining evening. Don't miss.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROSSIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—May Robson said to Frank Capra said to her. An actor on the set—a veteran actor who has watched young girls come and go for years—said to her. A palmer added his voice to the refrain, looking off to where a slim young girl with brown hair, blue-green eyes and a pleasantly expressive face was doing her scene.
What they all said, at different times, was "There's the girl to watch—Jean Parker!"
Movie fans already had begun to watch Jean. Her first appearance, with Jackie Cooper in "Divorce in the Family," brought quantities of fan mail. Her biggest role came when she was selected as the lead in "Shall We Tell Our Children?" It's a heavily emotional part, and her so heavily emotional part, and that only a year ago she was a high school child who had never acted professionally in her 17 years.

So To The Studio
That's the truth, however. The manner of her discovery for pictures is unusual. She was one of the bathing beauties on a boat advertising the Olympic games in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade. Such, her picture appeared in newspapers. There was that about it that caught the attention of Ida Koverman, secretary to Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M.
Jean was traced through the parade committee and called to the studio. "If you can act," she was told, "you can have a contract."
They marched her to a stage at once for a screen test. "Just talk and walk around," they instructed. Jean talked and walked around. They gave her no lines; so she talked about her pets—her goldfish, her dog, her cat—for five minutes. It was one of the oddest, and most difficult, screen tests that can be given. She triumphed.
Jean had to complete her high school education with a teacher at the studios in order to get her diploma this summer from the Pasadena high school.

Five Jeans
In person Jean suggests freshness and warmth, blending vivacity and sparkle with unusual poise. She has many interests and talents besides acting. She wants to be an interpretative dancer, a painter, a musician, a poet—and an emotional actress.
She has worked seriously at all of them, and—"I wish I were five people," she says.

Poughkeepsie Editor Has Play at Elverhoj

The summer time Broadway that is 500 miles long, stretching from the Jersey coast to Maine and back again, taking in more than 100 summer theatres in weekly production, will focus its attention on the Elverhoj Theatre, Milton, starting today.
The premiere of a new mystery comedy, "Desperate Lady", the work of Emmet Lavery of Poughkeepsie, once more centers the limelight on the rustic theatre at Milton which is one of the oldest of summer theatres.
This summer the University Players have attracted enthusiastic support and are challenging the attention of New York critics with Mr. Lavery's new play. Mr. Lavery, one of the founders of the Millbrook Theatre, brought Arthur Sircow's Company with Edith Barrett and Eric Dressler to Elverhoj four years ago. He has been active in the Experimental Theatre of Vassar College. He is president of the Board of Aldermen in Poughkeepsie and city editor of the Poughkeepsie Courier. He received the degree of bachelor of laws from Fordham in 1924.

Interment was made in Cold Spring cemetery and the service was simple in keeping with his own desire. A son, Frank Griffin, of Waterbury, Conn., and Mrs. Habcock, the daughter, survive him. Produces Most Wine

France is the largest wine-producing country in the world. In all of the 90 French departments, except a dozen, the farthest north and northwest, vines are grown and wine is made. The average production of wine in France is over 1,000,000 gallons yearly. Italy is the second largest wine-producing country and she is also the second largest wine-consuming country, so that the surplus of Italian wines available for export is comparatively small. The greater majority of Italian wines are beverage wines of no particular merit and are consumed while practically young.

Duties of the Kansas state oil inspector, fire marshal and hotel commissioner were consolidated into one department as an economy measure.

Where Every Woman Weds and No Worry About It
For every Hindu woman, her marriage is nearly as certain as her death. Owing to social customs, such as that which forbids the remarriage of widows, there is always a surplus of men who want wives. This fact alone makes an enormous difference between the attitude to life of the Hindu woman and her English or American sisters.

The intensely individualistic Western woman lives in an atmosphere of competition—competition for husbands in countries where war, colonization, and the services drain away so many of the eligible men; competition for jobs for a livelihood, for social recognition, or to break records.

The Hindu woman does not compete, not even for the kind of husband she prefers. He is chosen for her by her family, mostly when she is too young to care much, anyway. She does not strive for individuality, to stand out from the crowd. The married woman wears, from the Maharanee to the sweeper, gives the impression of "woman" rather than of separate personalities.

The Dalmatians who are now partly Jugoslavians and partly Italian in their national allegiance, says the Washington Star, have had a varied career in history, first passing under the flag of one nation, then another. At the time of the outbreak of the World war the Dalmatians were part of the Austrian empire, their coast along the Mediterranean being of vital importance to the Austrians. At one time Dalmatia was quite a formidable kingdom, but after it finally fell before the attack of the armies of Augustus it had a varied career. After the fall of Rome Dalmatia passed into the hands of the Goths, Slavians, Venetians, French and Italians, finally ending up as part of Austria up until the World war.

Attend Hearing on Industrial Code For Automobile Business

A. H. Chambers and Roy M. Smith in Attendance at Hearing in Albany—Meeting of County Dealers To Discuss Code. Will Be Called at Early Date.

A. H. Chambers, president of the Kingston Automotive Dealers Association of Kingston, and Roy M. Smith, a former president of the association, were in Albany on Tuesday attending the hearing on the Industrial Code which is being formulated under President Franklin D. Roosevelt's National Recovery Act to govern the automobile business of the state. This meeting held in Albany was a busy one with dealer organizations from all over the state being represented.

The meeting was called to formulate a tentative code for the automobile dealers of the state. A tentative code was presented and thoroughly discussed. This code was presented by Harry Bragg, executive secretary of the New York City Dealers Association, who prior to the drawing up of the proposed code spent days in Washington in conference with General Hugh S. Johnston, National Industrial Control Administrator.

President Roosevelt has asked that a code be adopted by the automobile dealers of the country under the National Recovery Act which will eliminate unfair business practices from the automobile business of the country and again bring about better conditions in the business. The National Recovery Act suggests that every automobile dealer affiliate himself with some dealer organization.

The Kingston Automotive Dealers Association of Kingston, a pioneer dealer association, will sponsor a meeting of the dealers from the county at some early date at which time the proposed Bragg code will be discussed and probably adopted. In order to represent the dealers of the county in the future a Ulster County Dealers Association of automobile dealers will be sponsored by the Kingston Association at that time. This meeting of Ulster county dealers will be called as soon as arrangements can be made.

New York state expects to be made one state with four districts, each district in charge of an executive administrator who will work through the Empire State Automobile Merchants Association which in turn is hooked up directly with the National Dealers Association.

Action must be taken immediately in order that a code may be approved by the dealers and be ready for submission at Washington by the first of the month.

Plans are already underway for the calling of the county meeting at which time the Bragg code as a tentative guidance for New York state dealers will be submitted for approval.

Ways of Skirting the Mode

Make Way for Velvet.

THIS DOTTED SWISS HAS A BOW

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.

Five pique and then are the fabrics and white far, far ahead of color popularity. At the left, buttoned all the way down the front, all pockets and finished waistline are interesting points of this skirt. At the right, a golf skirt has tabs with loops to hold down, a decorative and useful idea. In the center, seersucker shorts, feature the English waistline, loose darts and the trouser crease. Rose and white is a good color combination.

The Height of Hospitality

There are hostesses, we are informed, who are not so considerate of their guests, or perhaps it is only of their own bathing suits, that they provide bathing suits for guests they might have during the season. One Newport woman, we are told, has made it her spring shopping business to order a group of suits in an assortment of sizes.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

There is talk of fabric jewelry with the coming of the fall season. Last year saw a flurry of interest in various fabrics; this summer there has been development of the string and thread types of fabric jewelry.

Cravat silks have obtained sufficient foothold in fashion since the beginning of the year to anticipate their continuance for fall.

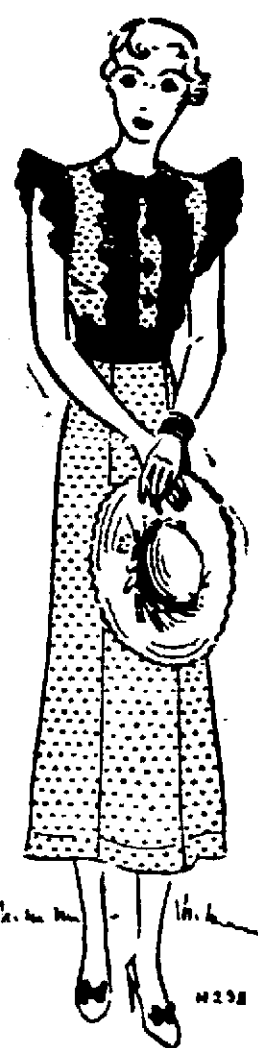

New York—There is just no denying velvet. It presents itself at every portal and loop hole of fashion, and is usually so charming about it that room is made for velvet even in August.

Here we have one of those cool as a cucumber dresses of dotted Swiss, and what should it have by way of a bow but velvet. There are extremely smart hats with a bit of a velvet band or bow, and even so many cool and stately frocks step out with a velvet, or velvetized coat.

It just naturally follows that velvet is going to be talked of for fall and winter, which reminds me to tell you that milliners are giving it more of a boost than usual, by way of the rakish velvet bow. It's a clever way to get the younger set to wearing velvet, for since they just won't stop wearing hats, why not make them velvet artists' caps instead of the Basque fisherman's top piece, which is invariably felt?

Dotted Swiss has had a great comeback, in black and the darker colors especially, and dots are being continued in, and on, other fabrics, notably satin which, at the risk of repeating myself, is being widely publicized for late summer and early autumn goings on.

It's the smaller, pea-sized dot that seems to be best liked. Another summer success must be reported, the men's shirting and necktie type of silk. They have certainly more than justified the vanguard of publicity accorded them, which moves one to think that there would be room in the wardrobe of many women for dresses of the same genre made of flannel, and other light weight woollens. The Paris success of gray flannel is another reason for asking you to consider dresses of this character even when summer is over. The tendency in woolen seems to be following the cue of the culture. They are letting the hair grow. All sorts of hairy, and shaggy woollens are predicted by those who have been wool gathering.

Youthful and wearable is a dotted Swiss frock, the background white and the dots red. The bow at the neckline is black velvet, as is the tailored belt.

Her condition is now quite improved.

John A. Barringer, former assessor, and his stalwart son, Lester, Krumville farmers, have been on Sheldon Hill harvesting the hay for Miss Mary Marshall. They also have contracted to cut Judge Winchell's crop.

It appears that a local bungalow shortage now exists as the general hot weather since early June has stimulated an unusual demand from Metropolitan families, who from experience appreciate the privilege of summering here in the cool mountain atmosphere of the reservoir section.

Harry Jordan of Roxbury, with a party of friends, came down for the big Saturday night dance at Colange Hall.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty Frock for the Larger Woman.

7901. Simple and slenderizing is the model here portrayed. The crisp yoke lines are most attractive, above a skirt that flares just enough to give grace and comfort, without losing the popular straight line effect. The dress is a perfect example of a dress that supplies the arm covering most becoming. A crash belt of material, and a complete variety distinctive design. Printed silk, in blue tones, or in gray or brown would be nice for this model with white mousseline or organdy for the tie and plaitings.

Designed in 3 sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54. Size 46 will require 4 yards of 39 inch material. The tie in contrast will require 3/4 yard 8 inches wide. The

The Same Old Flag

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SOME one's bought a new flag, to hang above the street. A red and white and blue flag, the marching men to greet. A tasseled, fringed and gold flag, a flag as pure as snow. And yet it is the old flag, the flag we used to know—

The same red, white and blue flag. The same old dare-and-do flag. The same old tried and true flag. The flag of long ago!

Some one's bought a bright flag, the old began to fade. A blue and red and white flag, to carry on parade. A red as red as flame flag, a blue as blue as skies. And yet it is the same flag, the fairest flag that flies—

The same blue, red and white flag. The same old dare-and-do flag. The same old tried and true flag. Our flag forevermore!

Repealers, Behind Martin's Pitching. Trim Senecas, 9-5

Jimmy Martin, high school pitcher, took his turn on the mound for the Morgan Repealers at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening and his pitching enabled them to defeat the Van Etten & Hogs Senecas by a score of 9-5. The victory marked the Repealers' fourth with one defeat chalked against them in the second half of the City League and are in second place.

Martin permitted eight hits, but kept them apart and it was largely through errors that he was scored on. Eight of the Senecas were set down by way of the strikeout route.

Johnny Burgevin, elongated right hander, opposed Martin, and was a worthy opponent. Although he yielded 11 hits he deserved a better fate and would have fared better if his teammates hadn't faltered at critical moments. He went Martin one better in fanning the batters, nine of them going down before his slants.

Besides hurling a good game Martin also had a big night with the willow, getting four hits out of four tries to lead the batters. Two of his hits went for extra bases.

Whitely Stewart fashioned the best hit of the game. He clouted a home run in the last inning. Jimmy Merritt hit a triple and a double while Charlie Lay poled two doubles.

A walk to Pres Knight and Merritt's triple accounted for the Repealers' first run, which came in the second inning. They registered twice in the third, five times in the fourth and once in the fifth.

The Senecas runs came in the second, fifth and seventh innings.

SIDELINERS

Both of the shortstops, F. Bruhn of the Repealers and Purvis of the Senecas, had a tough time. Bruhn made three errors and Purvis two.

Of the 14 runs scored only two were earned.

Tommy Davitt and Charlie Tiano exchanged positions in the last inning, but after one play Martin insisted that they get back to their regular positions.

The Schryvers and Gardeners will grace the diamond tonight.

Kingston Cops Lose by One Run To Newburgh

The Kingston police baseball team put up a valiant fight against the strong Newburgh cops' nine at the downriver city Tuesday afternoon, before a large turnout of fans with whom Chief J. Allan Wood's boys proved very popular although they lost 7-8.

"That Kingston bunch sure has a lot of baseball ability," said one Newburgh rooster. "It's too bad they don't stay in the field all summer. If they were at their peak of form today, they'd have it over our outfit like a tent. I understand it's their first real game of the season." Occasion for the little speech commending the Kingston bluecoats was the result of the way they leaned on the slants of Paddy Edwards, Newburgh star. Eleven hits were collected off his delivery. Bill Leonard, Straley and Walt Madajewski led the attack with three apiece. Freddie Stoudt allowed Newburgh only nine hits. He fanned five batters officially, but would have had at least four more to his credit were it not for several errors.

Official scorer of the game was Melvin (Meb) Lynch, manager of the Irish Block Nine of Wilbur. Although Sergeant James V. Simpson has no Nick Althrocks on his police team, the Kingston boys furnished a little comedy for the fans. George Bowers, local motorcycle officer ran for Freddie Stoudt in the fourth inning, sporting a pair of black and white oxfords. The umpire refused him enough for him to change his black and white for spiked shoes so he was ordered by Boss Simpson to "run as is and be sure to cross home plate." Wes Cramer, coaching on the baselines, saw to it that George obeyed orders and kept moving toward home which he finally reached with a Kingston run.

Tagging Major League Bases

The New York Yankees have regained the top of the American League standing very much in the manner of a team which is merely asserting its right as world champion.

By defeating the Chicago White Sox 9 to 4 yesterday, the Yanks stretched their winning streak to nine games, the longest in the major leagues so far. Yesterday's triumph coincided with Washington's 4-3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Browns and gave the Yankees a lead of one game.

In nine games, the Yanks have piled up a total of 97 hits for 80 runs. And while this clouting eased the pressure of their mound staff, the flingers have shown considerable improvement. Johnny Allen turned in another good effort yesterday. When he tired in the ninth he had a long lead to work on and Wilcy Moore checked the rally before it became dangerous. The Yanks rapped Ted Lyons for five runs in the first three innings.

The Senators made ten hits off George Blaholder and Sam Gray—but a couple of errors in the first inning gave St. Louis a head start of three runs that Washington never could overcome.

The Detroit Tigers backed Vic Sorrell's six hit pitching with home runs by John Stone and Ervin Fox and stepped a game closer to the first division with a 5 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics. Monte Pearson outpitched Lloyd Brown as the Cleveland Indians scored their second 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

First division clubs of the National League all won and the race remained unchanged. The first-place New York Giants rolled up their biggest score of the season in beating the Cincinnati Reds, 14 to 1. Starting when Johnny Vergez walloped a homer with the bases full in the first inning, they piled up 13 hits.

Chicago's Cubs remained 3 1/2 games behind as they bunched hits to beat the Boston Braves 4-1 in a duel between Lon Warneke and Ben Cantwell. The Pittsburgh Pirates, nailing Hollis Thurston for the last four of their 17 hits and three runs in the eighth inning, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 11 to 8.

Chuck Klein's 18th homer was one of the few effective blows the Phillies could get off Dixie Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals romped in with a 9 to 4 victory.

U. S. Cup Players Confident of Victory

Autenell, France, July 19 (AP).—It may be overconfidence, but America's Davis Cup tennis stars are convinced they can sweep to a decisive victory over England in the interzone finals starting in Roland Garros Stadium Friday, and thus advance into the challenge round against France next week.

Not only are Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Van Ryn confident of victory in the series, but they decline to concede England a single triumph in advance.

The shoulder injury Fred Perry suffered last week when England defeated Australia in the European zone finals and his present doubtful condition led most experts to pick the United States to win without particular trouble.

In shape, the erratic Perry conceivably might beat either Vines or Allison on one of his good days, but H. W. (Bunny) Austin does not seem to have the strength to withstand either of the two American singles aces, and Lott and Van Ryn look like a better doubles combination than either Perry and George Patrick Hughes, or Hughes and H. G. N. Lee.

Perry will play doubles as well as singles if his shoulder can stand the strain of three successive days of competition. Otherwise Lee will be called in to team up with Hughes.

Federated Sportsmen Tell About Their Organization

There appears to exist a very considerable amount of misunderstanding among the unorganized sportsmen of Ulster county as to the organization, purposes and activities of "The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County, New York." For this reason this publication is being made of answers to many queries in the hope that it may clear up, once and for all, all such questionings and misunderstandings.

For many years past it has been increasingly evident that the only way in which the individual local sportsman could assure himself of the opportunity of indulging in his pet hobbies of hunting and fishing without taking long and expensive trips away from home was to combine with other local sportsmen in the formation of so-called "Sportsmen's Clubs." The purpose of these organizations being, first, to assure a continued supply of both fish and game through proper re-stocking, and second, to protect the fish and game so produced against the activities of the law-breakers and the pothunter. It is no exaggeration to say that except for the activities of these groups of organized sportsmen there would be practically no hunting or fishing worthy the name for anyone in Ulster county today.

The first of these sportsmen's clubs to be organized was the "Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association" which was established in 1897 with the late well-known sportsman Howard Myer as its first president, and incorporated in 1907. Being the only organization of its kind in this part of the state for many years, its members were drawn from the ranks of far-sighted sportsmen wherever found and its activities covered the entire county.

As time went on and the need for re-stocking to supplement natural increase became better understood and more evident, other similar organizations began to be formed in different parts of the county. This was a development of direct benefit to all sportsmen as there is a very large area in this county suitable for stocking with both fish and game, too large, in fact, to be successfully handled by any one club no matter how well organized or how enthusiastic its members. These clubs slowly increased in numbers till the time came when their activities overlapped, resulting in duplication of effort, misunderstanding, and in some cases, actual friction between clubs in nearby localities. These facts being an open and not too pleasant secret among the organized sportsmen of Ulster county, it seemed fitting that the oldest sportsmen's organization of all should take the lead in attempting to bring about a better understanding, and on March 27, 1930, representatives of nine of the county's sportsmen's clubs met for dinner and conference in Kingston at the invitation of the "Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association." At this first meeting it became...

...the best kind of cooperation could be counted on once a thorough understanding had been established and out of that meeting has grown the organization known as "The Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster County, New York."

This county-wide federation of organized sportsmen was projected only after very careful consideration and on the advice of the New York State Conservation Department which has given its enthusiastic support to the idea from the start. As now in operation the federation has divided the entire county into districts in each of which is located a member-club, this member-club having complete charge of and being responsible for all re-stocking operations, both fish and game, within that particular district. The great bulk of the fish and game used for re-stocking operations comes from the New York State Conservation Department at no cost to local sportsmen, but this supply is augmented by shipments of fish secured from the Federal Bureau of Fisheries and by fish and game actually purchased by the different member clubs as the need for such action arises. Each member-club also is in the watch for game law violations within its own district reporting such violations promptly and securing action that might not otherwise have been possible.

It is the desire of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs to make direct answer to some of the questions which are most often asked by sportsmen as to our organization.

Are fish and game secured from the New York State Conservation Department stocked on posted land or in posted waters? Absolutely not. Fish and game actually purchased by the different member clubs as the need for such action arises. Each member-club also is in the watch for game law violations within its own district reporting such violations promptly and securing action that might not otherwise have been possible.

Can an individual sportsman join the "Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County, New York"? No. This organization is just what its name states it to be—a federation of sportsmen's clubs. Any interested sportsman desiring to participate in the activities of this organization must join one of the member-clubs through which he can aid in the work the federation is doing.

How many member-clubs has the Ulster County Federation and what is the obligation of each? The federation has 13 member-clubs at the present time with a combined strength of about 2,500 sportsmen. Any sportsman's club wishing to join the Ulster county and meeting the requirements of the constitution is eligible to membership. Such member club obligations must be worked out for better hunting and fishing within the district assigned to it by the federation, to encourage good sportsmanship among its own members and to cooperate with other member-clubs in the interests of "Conservation" in the county. Each member-club is dues to the federation in the amount of ten dollars per year.

What actual benefit has come local sportsmen through the federation and activities of the organization? Just these benefits that are expected to come in any activity through organization and cooperation. More fish and game have come into the county than before. Streams have been stocked that were previously unstocked, lakes and ponds as well as Game has been stocked into all selected corners and present after stocking with results that have been more than satisfactory. The way of the "game hog" and the breaker has become hard and popular and expensive. Actual results reported from all over the county prove that fishing and hunting is on the up grade. And proof of all other neighboring counties are following along the road where Ulster county led by organizing federations of their kind modeled on the same lines as this one.

Has the Ulster County Federation any actual interests aside from hunting and fishing? Yes. This was intended by nature to be a part of the beauty spots of New York state. The federation is vitally interested in anything and everything that tends to keep it so or to make it clean, healthy and beautiful as possible. It is interested in beautiful forests, clean undisturbed trails in the preservation of natural life, particularly song birds, in making Ulster county a better place to live in. In short, it is interested in "conservation." The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs are particularly interested in the advancement and improvement of business conditions in Ulster county. This county is a gateway to the Catskills, known throughout the country as the playground of the metropolitan area, and only to the Adirondacks in the entire North Atlantic States. Our county contains numerous camps, hotels, boarding houses and vacation places and it is the hope of the federation through their activities, stocking streams and fields to see their favorite sports come here to two to six months each year thereby help immeasurably to increase the business of not only the hotels and boarding houses but of the farmers and merchants throughout the county.

Does the New York State Conservation Department approve of or give its support to the Ulster County Federation? This question can be answered by a quotation from William C. Adams, chief of the Division of Fish and Game of the State Department of Conservation. "It is a sincere pleasure to you that my department gives its unqualified approval and support to the work that you men are attempting here in Ulster county. We are to be counted on for our fullest cooperation in any and all ways possible. The idea of county organizations of sportsmen's clubs, originated here in this county is one that I hope to see spread over the entire state, into every county where the stocking of fish and game is to be undertaken, and I can think of no step calculated to bring the organized sportsmen of our state into better understanding and closer cooperation with my department than this. Along this same line, it is most pitiful to think that only an average of about one out of every ten citizens who take out fishing and trapping licenses have a sufficient grasp of the problem of "conservation" to seek organization with other sportsmen in a club or association devoted to advancing their own personal interests. I hope to see a day when every county will have an organization similar to yours. I want to see the day when the member-clubs of these county organizations will be tremendously larger than they are now, when sportsmen of really awake to their obligations and opportunities, and when the organized sportsmen of New York will be a tremendous force for "conservation." When that day comes and it will come—Ulster county of point with just pride to the part it has played as pioneer in blaring the trail to the sportsmen's Utopia."

The composition of the Federated Clubs for this year is as follows:

Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County—President, E. M. H. Ben, Rosendale; vice president, Harry York, Saugerties; secretary-treasurer, C. R. Hotelling, Bloomington.

Monday afternoon four members of the council committee on Health and Safety visited the camp. They were Dr. Crispell of Kingston, Dr. Norman Cooper of Athens, Dr. G. F. Axtell of Saugerties and Dr. G. A. Englert of Catskill. The doctors examined each boy and pronounced each boy fit for his camping experience. Ulster-Greene Boy
Scout Camp Opens

Camp Half Moon, summer camp of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, opened its summer season in grand style Sunday afternoon.

Over the week-end the Scout Leaders' Training Schools held their out-of-door session of the training schools and they hardly finished eating their Sunday noon dinner when the campers began to arrive for the opening period of the camp. All during the afternoon cars were coming and going with parents bringing in their sons for the camp. At times the camp grounds resembled a small circus with the amount of duffles that was being deposited for the use of the boys.

As rapidly as the boys arrived they reported to headquarters and were assigned to their various villages and tents. By the time evening arrived nearly every camper was in his place. Sunday night saw the first big camp fire and everyone became acquainted and Coach Cahill, the camp director, introduced the leaders and staff of the camp and every boy spent an enjoyable evening.

Tuesday the New York State Department of Health had their health mobile in camp and conducted the first of a series of health movie talks and demonstrations to the boys.

Thursday evening of this week the directors of the Scout organization will visit the camp for their annual inspection and every camper is looking forward to entertaining this group of men.

BLOWOUTS are caused by frictional heat generated in the fibers of the cotton cords in a tire. Firestone is the only tire built with every cotton fiber saturated and coated with pure rubber—to prevent destructive heat. This is one of the reasons why Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the 500 mile Indianapolis Race for 14 consecutive years—the world's most severe blowout test.

Rubber has gone up 242%, cotton 115%—substantial tire price increases must follow. We will give you an attractive allowance for your old tires on new Firestone High Speed Tires.
